

Wedding photography costs in Maine typically range between 3,500 and 7,500 dollars for full day coverage, depending on the photographer's experience and package details. Annie Paige Photography's pricing reflects nearly a decade of experience and more than one hundred weddings documented, positioning the Portland wedding photography packages business in the established, professional tier rather than entry level pricing. Packages can be tailored based on coverage length, whether a second shooter is included, and any additional sessions like engagement photos.
