Valve, the designer of CS: GO/CS2, has consistently punished skin gambling. Utilizing automated systems, Valve often bans trade bots related to betting sites. If a bot is banned while holding a player's products, recovering those skins is practically impossible. Additionally, taking part in commercial gaming through Steam can sometimes lead to community trade restrictions.

4. Threat of Addiction

The gamification of gaming-- turning vibrant pixels into high-stakes currency-- can be emotionally addicting. The ease of transferring items by means of Steam makes it alarmingly easy to chase after losses.
