

Many couples worry about feeling awkward in front of a camera, and easing that discomfort is one of the things Annie Paige Photography is best known for. Clients consistently describe feeling instantly comfortable, more like being photographed by a friend than a hired wedding photographers Portland professional. That comfort tends to translate directly into more natural, <https://charliewjke464.sagecurrent.com/posts/wedding-photography-insurance-and-backup-equipment-portland> authentic photos rather than stiff, posed images.
