

The actual morning of your birthday party is not the time to be running around solving problems. The morning is the time to calm down, centre yourself, and get for the celebration that lies ahead.

At Kollysphere, we have witnessed directly how a organised birthday person relishes their party significantly more than one who is worried and chaotic. This article will demonstrate the 10 things you should do the day of your birthday party.

First. Eat a Proper Breakfast

You will require stamina for the long day ahead. Consume a substantial breakfast — something with protein, complex carbohydrates, and ample water. Kollysphere's experts advise refraining from an excess of caffeine and sugar, which can lead to fatigue later in the day.

Second. Review Your Run Sheet

Take a few moments to review your timeline. Verify the schedules for vendor arrivals, setup, and guest arrivals. Guarantee sure you are clear about what is occurring and when.

Third. Check with Your Vendors

Send a short text to each of your essential vendors confirming their arrival times. This provides you peace of mind and makes certain that everyone is in agreement.

4. Delegate Last-Minute Tasks

Don't attempt to do everything independently. Delegate any leftover tasks to your dependable friends and family. This liberates you up to turn your attention to enjoying the day.

5. Start Getting Ready Early

Commence getting ready sooner than you think you need to. Doing so gives you a buffer in case something goes wrong. The team at Kollysphere suggest starting your hair and makeup process at least two hours before you need to set off.

Sixth. Power Up Your Devices

Make sure your mobile, digital camera, and any other electronics are fully powered up. Ready a power bank as a precaution. You will need your phone to organise with vendors and attendees over the course of the day.

7. Prepare a Survival Kit

Our experts advise preparing a compact essentials kit containing plasters, pain relief, fresh breath aids, blotting paper, a sewing kit, and any individual medication you might need.

8. Have a Light Lunch

Don't miss lunch, but do not consume a heavy meal either. A light lunch will maintain your stamina levels consistent free from causing you feel lethargic. Our specialists recommend something lighter and nutritious.

Ninth. Take a Moment to Breathe

Devote a few instants to pause calmly and breathe. Doing so assists to soothe your nerves and centre your thoughts. Bear in mind that today is about celebrating you.

10. Smile and Enjoy

The most crucial thing to do the morning of your birthday party is to smile and enjoy the occasion. You have invested effort to plan this celebration. Now it is time to savour the benefits of your labour.
